Re: Open Records Request of November 6, 2020

Dear Ms. Conza:

The Diversity and Inclusion module you requested (the “Module”) is provided to the University of Oklahoma (“OU”) pursuant to a software as a service agreement entered into by and between Everfi and OU. Everfi is the holder of the copyright in the Module, and has granted OU a contractual right to access and use the Module for OU’s internal business purposes. OU does not have a contractual right to copy the Module or transmit a copy of the Module to you.

OU will allow you to view the Module, for public purposes only, on the Norman Campus during regular business hours. Please let me know when you would like to come to campus, and the necessary arrangements will be made for a date, time, and place.

Please be advised that you do not have permission (Everfi, or otherwise) to reproduce (copy) the Module, create derivative works based on the Module, distribute copies of the Module, use for a commercial purpose, perform the Modules, or otherwise display or transmit the Modules, and Everfi retains all rights in its intellectual property. Any violation of Everfi’s intellectual property rights could result in litigation by Everfi.

You may provide your response via email to openrecords@ou.edu.

Sincerely,

D. Walker, MHR
