Compliments Initiative Ends in Tragedy

Syracuse, NY

An enterprising SUCoL student's web project took him all the way to The Ellen DeGeneres Show before possibly contributing to his untimely death. [REDACTED] a 2L, was one of the creative minds behind 'Compliment Saturday', a Facebook page that offered inspiring words to its members each Saturday. Founded by [REDACTED] and friends in the summer of 2009, the page had first become a hit with his circle of friends at the law school before finding a national stage when it was financially backed by billionaire media pioneer Ted Turner.

[REDACTED] 24, was found stabbed in his apartment Saturday evening by his girlfriend who has been ruled out as a suspect. The time of death places the crime shortly after a post appeared on the site reading, '[REDACTED] you have a superior head of hair and a stunning girlfriend who is – I regret to inform you – now my girlfriend'. [REDACTED] another 2L, is currently being questioned by police in connection with [REDACTED] death.

Class of 2013 Named Most Attractive in History

Eager for outlines: 1Ls

Syracuse, NY

The Faculty Committee on Aesthetic Standards today named the current 1L class the most attractive in the history of SUCoL. Chairman of the Committee Professor ██████████ commented, “we’ve not historically been a school known for providing the professors with something to look at, but this year has exceeded all expectations.” Committee member Professor ██████████ agreed. “The guys have been pretty mediocre recently.

Sure there’s the occasional [redacted] and [redacted] but there hasn’t been any real quality material since [redacted] back in the Class of 2006.”

The committee’s report, due for released on Monday but obtained by SUCOLitis, names [redacted] and [redacted] as top of the male category. Leading the female list are [redacted] and [redacted] [redacted] continued, “every year we scan the accepted student photo library before orientation starts, and every year we’re left ultimately pissed.”

Word of the class’s potential spread early after 2L and 3L student mentors shared their thoughts before classes began. “The first day I looked around and I was like ‘what the fuck’s up with all this prime rib?’ I texted everyone straight away to tell them it was going to be a good year,” explained 3L [redacted] [redacted] also a 3L, agrees. “I only signed up to be a mentor in the hope I’d get some straight-out-of-college ass, I didn’t think for a minute that I’d bag this many before midterms.”

But [redacted] a 2L, thinks the numbers are misleading. “I took a few stats classes in undergrad, so I know what the fuck I’m talking about,” he explained. “The overall quality on a per-head-of-population basis hasn’t risen, it’s just that there’s more students in the 1L class and therefore a bigger pool to choose from.” Others disagree, “I don’t care about aggregate numbers and percentages and all that shit, all I know is this is what I put in my time as a 1 and 2L for” said 3L [redacted]

Beer Bong Elected 2L President in Recall Election

Votes and hose: Kim

Syracuse, NY

In a surprise result, beer bong Pump Kim was today named the new president of the 2L class after the ouster of incumbent [REDACTED]. The new voting rules adopted by the Senate in last week's meeting provided a recall option that was quickly exercised by his classmates. "I tried to get rid of him before but no one would listen to me. now they've finally seen the light" said 2L [REDACTED] who ran against [REDACTED] in last year's fiercely contested election. "It's not that we didn't like [REDACTED] explained 2L senator [REDACTED] "it's just that Kim pours beers down our throats. That's really the ultimate vote winner."

The move surprised many, not least because of the non-human winner. Senate Vice President [REDACTED] said, "we just didn't think to put anything in the constitution about elected officials needing to be actual people. What's next, that kid's rolling book suitcase making j-board?" It is believed the Senate will convene an emergency meeting to prevent 3L President [REDACTED] being replaced by a Twix.

Not everyone was happy with the result. [REDACTED] (no relation), one of Pump Kim's roommates said, "the power's already gone to his funnel. We used to go out and get messed up at least twice a week, now he's always like 'I got to meet with [REDACTED] about laptop usage in class', it fucking sucks." [REDACTED] was similarly unimpressed, "guys, come on. If I'm going to be replaced by something half the 2L class has deep-throated at least let it be [name redacted]".

Former Senate President Takes Adjunct PR Position

Goat-to guy:

Syracuse, NY

██████████ of the student Senate for the 2009-10 academic year will return to SUCoL in a teaching capacity, say documents obtained from the Office of the Dean. According to the files, ██████████ has been offered an adjunct position teaching professional responsibility and hosting an upper-level seminar preliminarily entitled ‘Ethics: From Straight Cash to Dating Clients’.”

Speculation grew ██████████ truck – with its signature pair of fake testicles – was seen parked in Irving Garage last week displaying a faculty parking pass. Speaking by telephone, ██████████ confirmed the reports. “I’m glad SUCoL is giving me this chance. I had some issues last year that I’m putting behind me.” According to local police reports, ██████████ was arrested for lewd and lascivious conduct with a beast of not less than one-hundred pounds – a misdemeanor in the state. “I said there was consent, they said goats couldn’t consent in New York, the whole thing was a mess,” ██████████ told us. “Fortunately the record’s been wiped clean and I’m ready to move on.”

One administrator, speaking on the condition of anonymity, told us there’s a hope ██████████ can bring something new to the program. “Law students are sick of being told all the things that constitute unethical conduct that they haven’t even come into contact with,” he explained. “What’s far more relevant for many students is what to do in the everyday situations you’re more likely to encounter as lawyers. That could be how drunk a Victoria’s Secret model would be before she could no longer consent, or whether you can put a G in your girl’s purse before you go through airport security.”

New Chipotle Praised For Spike in 3L Employment

Rice, beans, and quinoa

Syracuse, NY

Desperate 3Ls need no longer worry, according to statistics released by the Office of Professional & Career Development today. In a sudden change, the number of 2011ers who have already received job offers rose from 3% to over 20% in the period ending October 1. The increase has been buoyed by the imminent opening of the popular food chain Chipotle Mexican Grill on Erie Boulevard. Other employers include newly opened pizza buffet chain CiCi's and Syracuse Department of Parks and Recreation's Bear Control Unit.

Chipotle corporate spokesperson [REDACTED] told us, "we were looking for employees with more than the basics we require in larger urban areas. Opening a location in a less economically advantaged area, we knew we could be picky so we asked for a minimum of a postgraduate degree and some knowledge of the regulatory state". Students who have already accepted positions include 3L [REDACTED]

"I got a call back from Cravath but nothing ever happened after that," [REDACTED] told us. "Then Chipotle offered me a position with a pretty dece [sic] golden handshake. I couldn't say no to free guac for life."

Others have been similarly encouraged. "If I wanted a job where I'd be doing the same routine shit day in day out I'd have become a lawyer," said 3L [REDACTED] "There's three types of salsa there. Three." But not everyone agrees. "I came to law school because I want a five bedroom in Rve and a 760 on twenty-twos. This is some bullshit right here" complained 1L [REDACTED]

Reports suggest the school has already begun secret negotiations with upscale Chinese restaurant chain P.F. Chang's to supply labor from the Class of 2012 for its first location in central New York. "This is just the beginning," Career Development's [REDACTED] told us. "Let's just say prosperity rewards those who seek success. And the Chinese word for chopsticks is kuh-ah-ee-zee."
